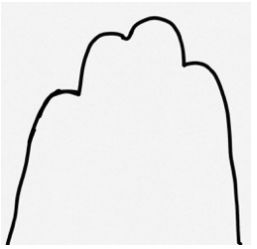
Prickly Pear Puppet Posse presents:

By: Kalob Martinez



Things you'll need: Sock, scissors, a piece of paper, a pen or marker, glue gun, cardboard, tape, foam, felt, and feathers.

1) Place the piece of paper at the edge of the table – lining up the paper's edge with the tables edge.
2) Trace the outline of your fingers onto the piece of paper by placing the top of your hand at the edge of the table and paper.

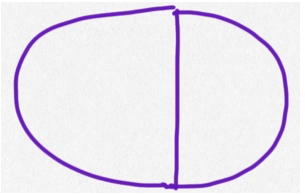
3) Draw around the fingers to make the top mouth pallet. Cut the outline free form the paper – we now have a pattern!
4) Take the paper pattern and trace it onto a piece of cardboard.
5) Fold the paper pattern to find the size of the lower mouth pallet then trace on to the cardboard.
6) Place the flat edges of each cardboard against one another and tape then fold and tape.
7) Place the cardboard mouth pallet flat and open onto felt and trace with a pen or marker. Draw straight lines (roughly half an inch) up from the outline of the pallet.



8) Using the scissors, cut the felt free from the felt.
9) Hot glue the felt onto the cardboard pallet. Glue the felt lines onto the opposite end of the cardboard pallet.
10) Turn the sock inside out and cut the toe stich open.
11) Hot glue the felted cardboard pallet onto the outline of the freshly cut toe line of the sock and turn the sock right side again.
12) Now decorate with eyes (buttons, ping pong balls, beads) and hair (fur or feathers)!
